

RIVER CITY ROUSTABOUT

working man music to get you through the week

The Roustabout Manifesto

---

How does one achieve eternal bliss? Roustabout.
How does one become famous? Roustabout.
How can one get rid of everything that smacks of journalism, worms, everything nice and right, blinkered, moralistic, westernized, enervated?
Roustabout!

Email

booking@rivercityroustabout.com

Online

www.rivercityroustabout.com

ReverbNation.com/RiverCityRoustabout

River City Roustabout is

Luke Jellison | vocals, guitar, harmonica, kazoo, spoons

Jeremy Bartel | bass, mandolin, guitar

Scott Smith | vocals, percussion, mandolin, bass

Bryan Heeb | banjo, percussion

Adam LaVigne | percussion, backup vocals

Stephen Rees | mandolin

River City Roustabout is the brainchild of Cincinnati based songwriter Luke Jellison who wanted to strip down his sound and make a gypsy folk rock band. The result was something more akin to outlaw country and singer songwriters of the 70s. Drawing inspiration from the muddy banks of the Ohio River and the lives of it's workers, or roustabouts, Luke's songs explore self-doubt, dreams of letting go, and hitting the road. With more than 40 original songs under his belt, Luke's prolific output and relatable lyrics make for a live show that rarely repeats.